Big Dog Ranch, Loxahatchee, FL

Project overview

Big Dog Ranch Rescue is the largest no-kill dog rescue operation in the Southeastern United States. Their goal is to give the gift of life to as many dogs as possible and be the leader in the national animal welfare movement through compassionate rescue practices and transformative educational programs.

Big Dog Ranch was opening a new facility in Loxahatchee, Florida and was looking for the optimal irrigation system that would perform in harsh Florida conditions. The most important element of this system for Big Dog Ranch was reliability.

The contractor chose the workhorse of the K-Rain line — the RPS® 75 rotor — to satisfy the irrigation requirements. With a top adjustment feature, the field team was able to set distribution patterns quickly and accurately. And to remind Big Dog Ranch who to call for seasonal tune-ups, the contractor had K-Rain customize the head with his company logo and phone number.

The contractor also selected the K-Rain 1" ProSeries 150 Valve for its robust construction and proven track-record. With the removable metering pin and high-impact ABS construction, the ProSeries 150 valve was the clear choice for the project's 1" segments.

Installation went smoothly, and in no time the canine and human patrons of Big Dog Ranch Rescue began enjoying a healthy and lush lawn.
